The Insurance Act 2016 - BIBA Conference

Posted on 12 May, 2016 by | Richard Harrison

In May 2016 Richard Harrison addressed the annual BIBA conference on the challenges facing the insurance industry in implementing the Insurance Act 2015 and Enterprise Act 2016.

BIBA 2016 is the undisputed meeting place for the insurance industry with 7000+ attendees over two days in Manchester. The BIBA seminar programme was packed with advice and tips for insurance professionals.

Expert speakers came from various sectors of the industry as well as general business backgrounds and the sessions covered a wide range of topics designed to make a tangible difference. The 2016 conference focussed on two defining issues of our age – the European referendum and The Insurance Act, which comes into force just three months after the BIBA conference.

BIBA has worked with the former Law Commissioner, David Hertzell and Mactavish, leading experts on insurance governance to put together a new implementation guide on the Insurance Act in conjunction with the key insurance trade bodies across the whole of the industry. Key participants including Devereux's Richard Harrison discussed the real life issues that are the do's and don't's for brokers in this must see session.

By the end of this session delegates will be able to:

- understand the main requirements of the Insurance Act;
- recognise what is a fair presentation and reasonable search;
- identify the key operational changes needed to ensure compliance with the Act.
